

Celia Reyes is a Senior Research Fellow at the Philippine Institute for Development Studies. She obtained her Bachelor of Science in Statistics and Master of Arts in Economics degrees from the University of the Philippines. She received her doctorate degree in Economics from the University of Pennsylvania. She has written extensively on poverty measurement and analysis. She designed the Community-Based Monitoring System (CBMS) that is being implemented in the Philippines and being piloted in other countries. She leads the CBMS International Network.

Aubrey Tabuga is a Research Associate at the Philippine Institute for Development Studies. She obtained her Master's degree in Public Policy from the National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies (GRIPS), Tokyo. Her current research interests are poverty, remittances and household expenditures, and disability.

Augusto Rodriguez is a Social Policy Specialist at UNICEF Philippines Country Office. He obtained his Bachelor of Science in Agricultural Economics from the University of the Philippines, Los Baños Laguna. He obtained his Master's degree in Economics and Doctor in Public Administration degree from the University of the Philippines, Diliman Quezon City.

